

Cox Showcases Top Trends in Multifamily and Single Family Home Industry on Open Door Podcast

ATLANTA (Oct. 22, 2024) – Cox Communities, a leader in multifamily and single-family technology solutions, recently concluded a successful third season of the Open Door Podcast. The 11-episode season covered cybersecurity, sustainability, and AI-powered technology.

Why it matters

Multifamily industry leaders face various decisions to improve residents' satisfaction. Valerie M. Sargent, host of Open Door, explores trends shaping the resident experience, featuring expert guests who share insights on addressing tenants' needs with the latest technology.

Top Expertise in the Multifamily Industry

Open Door showcases thought leadership in the multifamily industry. Experts discuss improving community atmospheres for those working and living in multifamily communities.

This season featured Lacy Brown, SVP of Multifamily Operations at Case & Associates, Sharon Wilson Géno, President of NMHC, Kendall Pretzer, CEO of Grace Hill, and several Cox industry experts.

"This podcast provides our customers and partners with solutions to common problems and offers fresh insights and expert perspectives on the evolving trends within the multifamily industry," said Vickie Rodgers, Senior Vice President of Cox Communities. "We're committed to empowering our audience with the knowledge they need to stay ahead in this dynamic space."
